Surplus Book Sale at the Oregon Historical Society

Sunday, August 1, Noon – 5 p.m.

Portland, OR – July 8, 2010— The Oregon Historical Society Library is holding a sale of duplicate and out-of-field books on Sunday, August 1, from noon to 5:00 p.m., at the Oregon Historical Society, 1200 SW Park Avenue, Portland. Admission is free to OHS members, and non-members will pay regular museum admission prices.

The books for sale will include thousands of titles relating to Oregon history, as well as general U.S. history and many other subjects. Some will be rare and hard-to-find editions, many dating from the late 19th and early 20th centuries. Most items will be priced from $1.00-$5.00!

All of these books duplicate existing OHS holdings or are outside the OHS collecting scope. Nothing from the Society's permanent collections is being sold.

The sale will also include hundreds of duplicate photographic prints copied from the Society's vast holdings, including images of Portland and other locales in Oregon and the Pacific Northwest. Also on sale are old exhibit banners featuring historic photographs and artistic graphics. Stop by on August 1 to pick up some summer reading material, and to visit our newest exhibit Arte en la Charrería: The Artisanry of the Mexican Equestrian Culture.

About the Oregon Historical Society

The Society has served since 1898 as Oregon's primary research collection and museum about Oregon history. OHS has an extensive collection of historical pieces, including over 85,000 artifacts and 3 million photographs and films. It safeguards and presents Oregon's history through a museum, research library, traveling exhibits, school programs and website content.
